

Announcing the Annual Anthropology Undergraduate Essay Award Competition

The Anthropology Undergraduate Essay Award is given for an excellent undergraduate paper and comes with a $50 cash prize.

What should you submit?

We strongly encourage submission of papers which you have written for course credit during the past year, especially the senior seminar, although papers written in other contexts and classes are also welcome. It is advised that you get feedback on the paper from the course instructor or, if the paper is written outside of coursework, from a relevant faculty member, and revise your work before submitting it for the essay award.

When should you submit your paper?

Submissions will be due in early February each year. Look for announcements that are posted on the Anthropology Undergraduate Major Discussion Board.

How should you submit your paper?

Please email your paper as a Word attachment to Ulrich Reichard (ureich@siu.edu) or whoever is current Director of Undergraduate Studies. Do not include your name on the attached paper.

How will essays be judged?

The Undergraduate Committee will read and rank all submissions. Other faculty from the relevant sub-field may also be consulted as needed.